CHANGES TO MIDDLETON ADVISORS ADVISORY BOARD

After 10 years of working with the founding partners of Middleton Advisors, Rupert Bradstock has stepped down from the company's Advisory Board.

With his considerable experience in the prime property sector, Rupert has helped guide the company through its growth over the last decade.

Founding partners Mark Parkinson and Tom Hudson said "We are particularly grateful for Rupert's steady hand on the tiller during some remarkably eventful years including Brexit and a global pandemic. We have always been grateful for his input and never more so during the deeply worrying times we've all faced at the beginning of the pandemic. We would like to thank Rupert for his contribution so far and he will remain closely involved with the business as a friend."

Concurrent with this change, we are delighted to announce the formation of a new Advisory Board, with Juliette Stacey and Chris Eadie complementing the founding partners' skills and experience.

Juliette Stacey, who currently advises the company on strategic and operational matters, draws on over 30 years of experience across property, professional services, construction and engineering. As part of a distinguished 12-year career at Savills, she spent over four years as COO, Commercial for UK & Europe, a role that included a seat on Savill's European Executive Committee. In 2014, she was appointed Group CEO of Mabey Holdings, the former international construction and engineering business. Juliette now holds a portfolio of non-executive Director appointments at Fuller, Smith and Turner PLC, Renishaw PLC, Sanderson Design Group, and Willmott Dixon.

Chris Eadie is an experienced public and private company Finance Director who assists companies with corporate finance and fundraising, maintaining a strong focus on financial reporting, internal controls, and governance structures. Chris is currently a Finance Director of Zephyr Energy PLC, an AIM listed company focused on oil and gas exploration. During his career he has worked for businesses across six continents (all except Antarctica) on projects ranging from gold mining in Kyrgyzstan, Spain and Mexico, to building a 3G mobile network in Jamaica, to setting-up a commodity trading business in the UK.

Managing Director Mark Parkinson said: "We are thrilled to welcome Juliette and Chris to the new Advisory Board. We continually benchmark ourselves against the service standards and practices of the UK's leading businesses; these appointments will ensure that we benefit from their experience, skills and exceptionally broad perspectives during the next stages of our growth and development."
